The main diet for bodybuilding in the 70s was high protein and low carb. It was Protein to build the muscle and less carb to reduce body fat. It made perfect sense to me and the others that trained. However when you would try to explain this to someone on the street, it would be an argument about how they liked to eat all the other foods.

Almost on a daily basis I see guys come on here and tell us that they weigh 130 lbs and can't gain weight. They try and try and can't. I remember when I was 15 years old standing 6'ft tall and weighing 150 lbs. I was lucky that my older brother was a bodybuilder and helped me get started. A few years later i was 220lbs. Back then there was a full proof method of bulking that was used with ...
