Unshed Tears is a visual representation of all the tears I was afraid to cry. I took this picture in my room 4 days after a biopsy revealed that the steroids I had been taking were only making the parasite stronger. I took all of the emotions I didn't even know that I had and poured them into this picture.

Although written as fiction, many of the details in "The unshed tears" are based on the experiences of Edith Hofman Birkin and her family during the Holocaust. It describes how the main character, Judith Baron, was deported from Prague to the Łódź ghetto and later to Monowitz; forced to work in Kristianstadt, a sub-camp of Gross-Rosen; and later participated in a death march.

This true-life novel was written in the aftermath of the Second World War and the author's terrible experiences in a Nazi death camp. Only now has it been published for the first time. Edith Hofmann is a survivor of the Holocaust, born in Prague in 1927 as Edith Birkin. In 1941, along with her parents, she was deported to the Lodz Ghetto, where within a year both her parents had died. At 15 she was left to fend for herself. The Lodz Ghetto was the second-largest ghetto to Warsaw, and was established for Jews and Gypsies in German-occupied Poland. Situated in the town of Lodz in Poland and originally intended as a temporary gathering point for Jews, the ghetto was transformed into a major industrial centre, providing much needed supplies for Nazi Germany and especially for the German Army. Because of its remarkable productivity, the ghetto managed to survive until August 1944, when the remaining population, including Edith, was transported to Auschwitz and Chelmno extermination camp in cattle trucks. It was the last ghetto in Poland to be liquidated due to the advancing Russian army. Edith was only 17, and one of the lucky ones. For the majority, it was their final journey.

Dr. Suryabala is a highly established and widely acclaimed writer, endowed with creative talent, sensitivity and vision. The canvas of her writing encompasses villages, towns, metros and even foreign lands. She exhibits the open mindedness required in a writer and rises above the narrow considerations of any particular ideology, class or literary movement. Her creative genius thrives on newer milieu and themes with changing backgrounds and, consequently, enables her break new ground in her stories and novels to bare the ever existent human afflictions and anguish. Stories of this collection take their inspiration from our inner emotions which are far more profound, vigorous, comprehensive and genuine than the expressed ones. The anguish of deteriorating cultural and moral values pierces Suryabala to her very heart and is the main source of her creativity. Her craft and style of writing, enriched with lyrical language, is ever fresh and draws readers with its own magnetism.
